

Streamlined enrollment process for a female finance school

Rock The Street, Wall Street is a financial literacy program designed to spark an interest in high school girls about finance. The program was looking for a Salesforce integration option to be able to send in batches and instantly archive application forms as soon as they are completed.

Key challenges before using airSlate:

- ✗ Collaborating on documents and sending out forms individually was taking too long.
- ✗ There was not a way to quickly send out forms to multiple students.
- ✗ Generation and filling out of the documents required usage of several different tools.
- ✗ Collecting completed forms from students in a timely manner was never possible.

Results achieved with airSlate:

Improved experience for students and staff with easy-to-use digital forms.

Automated document generation based on Salesforce data.

Hours of work reclaimed with the comprehensive Salesforce integration.

Streamlined enrollment process with reusable templates and bulk sending.

Moving Girls Forward in The Field of Finance

Along with making us more efficient and saving us an incredible amount of time, airSlate was easy to set up, and its templates are already set in a way that is more simple to use.
